Four new states have been added to the Union, and the stars in the flag increased from thirty-eight to forty-two. Many acres of land, formerly occupied by Indians as a hunting ground, have been opened up to settlement, and thousands of poor but industrious men have made homes for themselves there. The tide of immigration has been towards the South too, as well as towards the West, and many men who formerly faced each other in battle have forgotten the animosities of the past, and turned their thoughts to the bright industrial prospects of the future. There have been some misfortunes and calamities in particular localities, but they have been the exception rather than the rule, and there is every reason why a feeling of genuine thankfulness should arise from the heart of the people of the nation tomorrow.

Amid their rejoicing, however, surrounded not only by the necessities of life, but by the luxuries, the fortunate should not forget the unfortunate. In many cities it is customary to gather the ARE PREPARED TO DO ALL ragged, dirty children of the poor together and give them a good dinner and send them away with satiated appetites, light hearts and a feeling that | Cor. A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle. It helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her monthly and semi-annual drawings of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, and in person manage and continued the same are conducted with honesty, fairness, and in good faith toward all parties, and we authorize the company to use this certificate, with fac similes to four signatures attached, in its advertisements."
